

SWEET DREAMS

This sleep suite for kids, fashioned after a surf shack, is handcrafted from genuine bamboo and sturdy hardwood. Strong, safe and built to last for years of rough-and-tumble use, the Surf Shack bunk bed features upper- and lower-deck sleeping quarters, a bamboo top-entry ladder and a radical sliding board exit. But the real beauty of this custom-made piece is in the dazzling details—whimsical palm trees, a thatched roof covering the top “hut” bunk and split-bamboo edging give the bed a breezy Caribbean feel; the matching armoire keeps clothes off the floor in style. Price: $10,000.

bravo bravura

In-the-know collectors in the Hamptons regularly visit Leonard Barton’s Bravura Arts and Objects, a unique Southampton, N.Y.-based gallery showcasing items ranging from Murano sea-motif glass and museum-quality fine art to the new Bravura Planter, a glamorous 1940s-style garden accessory. Configured as a giant argonaut on a coral base, the 20-inch-high planter can be custom-ordered in any color, finish or style (including solid bronze). It can be adapted as a light or fountain, and used indoors or out. Each planter is made to order, and can be shipped worldwide. Price: from $975. || www.bravurastyle.com

LOVELY LINENS

San Francisco-based Peking Handicraft offers new designs to perfectly complement your coastal décor with the introduction of its 2007 Sea Life Collection. The collection, designed by D.L. Rhein, features pillows, napkins and guest towels created of fine linen and decorated with computerized embroidery—a technique that provides variety in color and intricate design detail. The collection includes Seahorse, Nautilus, Starfish, Venus’ Fan, Sea Urchin and Coral designs on napkins ($13.50), and plush square pillows ($48). || www.pkhc.com
